

The Corning Country Club is pleased to announce to the local community the recent hiring of Brud Holland as Executive Chef. Chef Holland received his degree in culinary arts in 1987 from the New England Culinary Institute in Montpelier, Vermont.

He began his career in Arizona as Pastry Chef at the Arizona Club, and Executive Sous Chef at the Troon Golf and Country Club. In 1992, Chef Holland founded and designed his own bakery and delicatessen, Glen Mountain Market, in Watkins Glen. In 1996 he also became owner and president of Della Terra Inc., a vegetarian food manufacturer. Chef Holland left Glen Mountain Market in 1998 to become the Chef and owner of Watkins Hotel. It was around this time that Brud's dedication to the community lead to his position as the Culinary Arts instructor of 171 Cedar Arts in Corning, where he currently teaches classes to both children and adults. In 2002, Chef Holland resigned from Della Terra Inc., and Watkins Hotel to become Executive Chef at Corning Incorporated where he remained until 2007.

Chef Holland has a unique cooking style, which he believes will support his on-going drive to provide world class products and services to world class customers.

For more information please contact the General Manager, Mike Sweet at (607)936-3711 or e-mail him at SweetMH@corning.com.

Thinking about membership at the Corning Country Club?
For only $25 a month, we can host all of your important business meetings and events!

Services available:

- *Business to Business Meetings
- *Business to Customer Meetings
- *Business Employee Recognition
- *Staff Trainings
- *Business Leadership Development